There are two primary motivations, one, to reinforce the role of children as content creators rather than mere consumers, and two, to enable learning outside of a structured English language classroom. \\ LETS uses digital applications that employ Same-Language-Subtitling, voice overs, and voice recording software to encourage active listening and reading aloud. The books and stories illustrated and brought to imaginative life by the children supplement the animated stories they see $and\ hear\ and\ respond\ to\ on\ tablets.\ The\ project\ is\ intensely\ collaborative,\ melding\ art\ and\ language\ and\ literature\ in\ ways\ that\ turn\ accepted$ UPDATES Context and Students as Co-Creators NEWSLETTER PATENTS COPYRIGHTS & TRADEMARKS PUBLICATIONS
